

JIMMY at The James, SoHo

Located on the 18th floor of The James Hotel in the heart of West SoHo, JIMMY boasts 360-degree views of the skyline, an array of seating options, and some of the finest cocktails in town. The bar has a refined, modern aesthetic but remains warm and welcoming. It's both big enough to attract a hefty crowd, especially late at night, and small enough to feel intimate, making it the ideal venue for big groups, small catch-ups, and even first dates.

Unlike most rooftops, JIMMY at the James is a hot spot year-round, with guests flocking outside and to the pool in the warmer months and getting cozy by the indoor fires on those cold winter nights. So even during the unpredictable months of April and May, when the weather can go from 70 and sunny to 45 and freezing in no time at all, JIMMY has you covered.

The SoHo bar is known for its inventive and delicious cocktails, which change seasonally, and the current spring menu is no exception. For a refreshing sip on a hot day, try the Cucumber Switchel—a mix of Ketel Cucumber Vodka, Calamansi Vinegar Elderflower, and John Henry Bitter Lemon—or the Kickin' Back—a blend of Partida tequila, suze liqueur, grapefruit and pink peppercorn. JIMMY has all the 2019 trends covered, too, with drinks like the Matcha Mule, a twist on the traditional Moscow Mule that adds millennials' favorite green ingredient, and the White Unicorn, a vodka-based cocktail that is topped with coconut foam and rainbow stars, making for the ideal Instagram opportunity. There will also be a special drink for Earth Day on April 22 that will utilize leftover pineapple peels and rinds and 100 percent of its proceeds will go to the New York Restoration Project. The bar's 14 new spring cocktails, all $19, are joined by a lineup of savory snacks, including some from the downstairs Gitano Jungle Room.

JIMMY at the James is open from 5 p.m. to 2 a.m. Thursday through Saturday and from 5 p.m. to 1 a.m. Sunday through Wednesday.
